An extraordinary solo show of the artist
at the Castle of Novara

From 11th November 2018 to 3rd February 2019 the rooms of the Castello Visconteo Sforzesco of Novara, Italy, host a big solo show of Enrica Borghi, curated by Lorella Giudici.

The exhibition is a surprising anthology bringing together historical works, large installations and brand new artworks. The ambition is to offer an overview of Enrica Borghi's thirty year artistic work. It is the first time that the Castle of Novara dedicates a solo show not only to a female artist, but to a living female artist.

Thanks to her kaleidoscopic character, Enrica Borghi created and keeps creating a heterogeneous universe that comes alive and takes life from materials that our society rejects and discards. Hers is a creative gesture that gives new life, beauty and shape to objects destined for landfill and oblivion. With her artistic research in continuous movement and expansion, Enrica Borghi is among the most interesting and eclectic artists in contemporary art. She is able to crystallize in beauty the soul of our daily life and investigate the themes of re-use, environment, territory and femininity. The artist: "I want to talk about the seduction of waste, the alchemical possibility of transformation".

The Italian town of Novara has a special and emotional bond with the artist who, after finishing her studies at Brera Fine Arts Academy in Milan, moved to this city in the Piedmont Region. Her small rented studio was renamed "my alchemical laboratory". Enrica began collecting detergents containers, colourful plastic bottles, food packaging: waste is an inexhaustible treasure trove of material and ideas for the artist.

The artworks on show start from the Nineties until the most recent ones. From tapestries made of strips of plastic bags to agglomerates of cotton buds, metal buttons, fake nails, dishcloths and scourers covering Venuses and busts. Huge dresses made of plastic bottles, jewels shaped to perfection, mosaics of buttons, walls of luminous spheres of aluminium, jellyfish with long tentacles, fluctuating nebulas. But also photographs and unique pieces where the luminous element plays on the sparkling reflections of plastic surfaces.

The vernissage is scheduled on Saturday, November 10th at 5 pm. A special performance will follow at 6 pm. Parade. Recycling Warriors Objects: masks, armours, sculpture-garments between seduction and fantasy.
